The North Carolina Democratic Party's press tour will reach voters across the state to localize President Biden and Democrats' work over the last nine months to deliver for North Carolina's working class and hold Republicans accountable for their opposition. The tour begins Monday, October 18. Over the past nine months, President Biden and Democrats have been hard at work passing the American Rescue Plan and finishing work on passing the Build Back Better agenda, historic investments that will create jobs, cut costs for working families and keep the economic recovery going. Meanwhile, the GOP have stood in the way and continue to prove time and again that there is no opportunity to help North Carolinians that trumps their singular goal of obstruction for political gain. If Ted Budd, Pat McCrory, or Mark Walker were in the U.S. Senate, North Carolinians can count on more of the same.
