

{audio}files/preroll.mp3;files/News_Audio/2012/sgrtwilloughby013012.mp3{/audio} Wake District Attorney Colon Willoughby discusses the steady decline in crime in North Carolina over the past 15 years with host Barlow Herget. He points to more sophisticated policing techniques and sentences that have put many habitual criminals behind bars.