NC. House Representative David Lewis (R-Harnett) and N.C. Senator Warren Daniel (R-Burke) released the following statement in response to the court's 2-1 decision which ruled the legislative changes to the state Board of Elections and Ethics Enforcement were unconstitutional. “With early voting already underway, we are seeking an emergency stay for the entire ruling because we are very concerned that this decision could confuse voters and disrupt the administration of this election. “The public deserves a bipartisan elections board that implements elections laws and investigates campaign finance violations without favoritism towards any party or political agenda. The people can weigh in starting today by voting on the proposed amendment to make a bipartisan Board of Elections and Ethics Enforcement a part of our state constitution.”
