RALEIGH, (SGRToday.com) - When state Republicans meet next weekend to choose a new party chairman, they will hear from Gov. Pat McCrory. The party announced the governor will deliver the keynote speech at the Saturday, June 6 session at the Raleigh Convention Center.

Other speakers for the three-day convention include entrepreneur Donald Trump, Wisconsin Gov . Scott Walker, and former U.N . Ambassador John Bolton.

State Democrats selected their new leader earlier this year. Former state legislator and congressional candidate Patsy Keever took the helm from embattled Chatham County resident Randy Voller.
