Equality North Carolina released the final round of the organization's 2020 pre-primary endorsements for political races across the state of North Carolina. This final batch of endorsements includes key judicial races across the state. ENC will release further endorsements after the Primaries on March 3.

Kendra R. Johnson, Executive Director of Equality North Carolina, released the following statement:

“This third and final round of endorsements provides a nuanced overview of many of North Carolina’s key races heading into the 2020 election season. We believe the politicians that we’ve endorsed are well-equipped to help build a better North Carolina, change the dangerous trajectory that this country is currently heading towards, and create a better world for us all. ENC hopes that you’ll visit the polls feeling both more familiar and informed with the folks seeking to govern our communities in the years to come.”
