

Vetoed, Election Board decisions and another mayor for governor

By

Friday, 06 September 2013 09:43 -

Paul Woolverton of the Fayetteville Observer and Bruce Ferrel of WPTF News join host Barlow Herget to review the Republican legislature's override of Republican Gov. Pat McCrory's two vetoes. Did the legislature weaken their own governor? The state Election Board gives a split decision on two Republican local boards' attempts to make voting more difficult for students. It's Labor Day, but who's celebrating and Raleigh's former mayor weighs run for governor in 2016.

{audio}files/preroll.mp3;files/Shows/2013/Weekly News In Review/wnr090613.mp3{/audio}